

SANTA ROSA JAIL GUARDED AGAINST MOB ATTACK

FURTHER EFFORTS TO LYNCH CAPTIVE GANGSTERS LOOM

Lynching Averted by Promise To Mob of Speedy Justice

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 6.—Immediate indictment by the grand jury and a speedy trial of the three men and possibly Dorothy Quinlan, the woman with them last night, who were involved in the killing of Sheriff Petray of this county and two San Francisco detectives last night was promised today by District Attorney Charles Hoyle. This promise, made by Hoyle at length today, was echoed from his address last night to a mob of 3000 or more citizens of the county who, rioting at the door of the new county jail, clamored for the lives of the murderer and his complices.

It was not until well after midnight that the streets finally began to clear, the mob to disperse. Today the evidences of the battle they had waged with the officers were many. Splintered poles and railroad ties, several lengths of steel rails and a badly battered set of doors were mute evidences of the crowd's fury.

MEN FROM MANY CITIES SWELL RANKS OF CROWD AT COUNTY JAIL

Never, in fact, has the county been aroused as it was last night. Two-thirds of the crowd was probably from Santa Rosa. The other thousand men came in automobiles from Healdsburg, Sebastopol, Petaluma, a score of smaller places to which word of Sheriff Petray's death had spread.

Indications during the morning were that cooler thought would prevail, and up to an early hour in the afternoon there had been no recurrence of the violence.

Announcement by the sheriff's office that George Boyd had confessed that he alone had done the shooting cleared the situation considerably, yet for a time it was feared that it might have the effect of again arousing a mob.

HEALDSBURG HOT BED

When the mob finally dispersed early this morning it did so on the appeal of officers and others that the authorities were not sure that the man who actually did the shooting. Many angry remarks against Boyd were exchanged on the streets during the following hours of his confession.

Rumors of new trouble flew thick and fast, but all were without foundation as far as the authorities could learn. Healdsburg was looked upon as a possible fountain head for violence, that being the home of the murdered sheriff. Reports that a mob was forming there were in circulation this morning, but the mob failed to materialize.

White, however, the situation was coming to a crisis today, the rioting of last night assumed at times the most serious proportions. Only the determined efforts of the authorities, at times extending to the exercise of physical force, prevented the arrested men being actually taken from custody and lynched.

AUTOS GATHER MOB

Soon after the prisoners had been removed to the jail a crowd began to gather. By 6 o'clock it numbered 2000. Before the night had worn far estimates placed the number in the crowd at no fewer than 3000. Every road through the countryside into Santa Rosa was marked by the lights of scurrying autos bringing angry farmers to the county seat as well as towns residents of neighboring cities.

Boyd, still in a result of his wounds to care, but for hours the other prisoners in the jail listened to the shouting and curses and to the rumbling and crashing without that told them of the mob seeking blood penalty for the crimes that had been committed.

At 8 o'clock the venerable Judge Sewell of the Superior Court, one of the most distinguished jurists of the state, entered the jail and afterward descended into the mob itself. He pleaded with the crowd to "save our friends from the stain of a lynching." From the crowd a roar came back: "Lynch them!"

POLICE USED AS RAM

Two assaults were made on the jail before midnight. The first time a crowd of men attempted to rush the door with a pole for a battering ram. This was about 10:30 o'clock. When they started a gun was fired up for a leader. John Campbell, a young merchant of Monte Rio, volunteered, according to the police. The raid ended when the officers seized Campbell and whisked him into the jail.

Campbell later was released. Inside the jail much was made of him by the deputy sheriffs on guard. He was treated not as a criminal but as a hero.

Later fifty or more youths went two blocks from the jail and obtained an iron beam from a building in course of construction. They started for the jail, but were driven up to the jail door by Patrolman O. A. Cockerill and other officers. With his bare fists Cockerill knocked down half a dozen of them.

SUBTERFUGE FAILS

Beside Judge Sewell, Assistant Sheriff John E. Frits who acted to direct the mob after Sheriff Petray was killed, and others were instrumental in quelling the crowd. Boys shouted to the throng that one of the men was "nearly a corpse," whereat the mob was wildly cheered. He also offered to be the crowd $100 to $200 that the other men were not in the jail, but had been taken elsewhere. The subterfuge worked only for a moment, when the officers for retaliation were renewed and more loudly than ever.

Between the two attacks on the jail the crowd withdrew from the jail doors a block or so, where a conference was held, but it resulted in no definite line of action. Meanwhile, the order of the mayor, a call was put in for the fire department which responded and trained lines of hose upon the crowd preparatory to drenching them in case there was a further outbreak. The hose was not used.

The crowd, however, returned to the jail doors, about which it surged until long after midnight. Occasionally there was a shout of "Break in! Break the door!" but this was easier said than done. Both telephone poles and steel rails having failed to make any impression on the heavy iron doors of the institution, the crowd was without further concern of breaking its coveted re-venge.

HEAVY GUARD KEPT

Shortly before midnight there was a temporary lull in the rioting. The jail doors opened and Police-woman Katherine O'Connor and the three girls she had brought from San Francisco to identify the arrested men emerged. The crowd's opportunity for entrance was not seized. The sight of the women somehow held them in check. To the right and left members of the crowd fell back until there was left a little lane down which the women walked in safety.

Finally, short time after midnight the men on the outskirts of the mob began to grow restless and numbers began to diminish. In an hour only a few stragglers were left on the streets, but these kept watch throughout the night. It was understood they were to summon others of the crowd back to the place if opportunity of getting at the arrested men was promised.

A heavy guard at the jail continued to be maintained throughout the night. San Francisco police were added to the guard in the late evening. The doors were kept barred against all but officials.

FIVE MEN HELD ON CHARGES OF ATTACKING GIRLS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—The tragedy at Santa Rosa was a development of the police search for invaders, a group of whom whom the sheriff had said had more than a dozen, and probably a dozen of young women to indignities. Injuries and brutalities at a house in Howard street, in one of the more densely settled districts. The first of these attacks to come to police notice was when a young woman on November 24, after a night of horrible experience, jumped through a window and told an officer a girl companion was still in the house by a number of men.

The police raided the place sent the second girl to a hospital and took five men to jail. The girls said eight men had been concerned in the attack on them and it was in search for one of the three not found in the house that the officers went to Santa Rosa.

The girls were forward with accounts of indignities suffered at the Howard street houses.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED

The five men arrested here were Edward Kravosky and Ed Murphy, known respectively as "Knockout" and "Spud." James Carr, Allen McDonald and Thomas Brady were held in the house.

Police-woman O'Connor said:

CHAMBER TO GIVE LUNCHEON FRIDAY

Members of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual membership luncheon on Friday. Notices went out today for this luncheon, at which the annual report of the organization will be read. The luncheon will be held in the ivy ball room of the Hotel Oakland. A portion of the program will be given over to the "Mar-no-name" organization, launched by the Rotary club. Preston Higgins will have charge of this feature.

The notices of the meeting say that the report of Joseph E. Cane, managing director of the Chamber of Commerce, will show that 1920 has been the most remarkable year ever known in Oakland. It is also promised that the last word in the naval base fight will be delivered.

Retail Cleaners Are Against Ordinance

Opposition to the cleaning and dyeing regulation ordinance scheduled for final passage by the city council today was anticipated from the Local No. 1 of the Cleaners' and Dyers' union and from the Retail Cleaners' and Dyers' association. The ordinance would compel cleaners who do not do all the work in their own plants to advertise themselves as agents. The answer is that all the smaller firms send out part of their work and that the ordinance would operate to the extreme disadvantage of the smaller ones.

COUNT MYSELF
LUCKY, SAYS ROLPH

"I have often seen the time during the past year when I would have given everything I possessed to be strong enough to sleep like I did last night and then eat the hearty breakfast that 'the doctors' said, Robert J. Rolph, 681 Polk Street, San Francisco, well-known foreman of the tool room, Western Motor Co., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanae's disease."

"Up until about a year ago I always enjoyed good health, but about this time I began suffering with catarrh of the nose and throat which finally undermined my health completely. I would get up in the morning so choked up I could hardly breathe and so nauseated I could not eat any breakfast, and when little I forced myself to eat at other times seemed to give me no strength. I often got so dizzy I had to sit down or hold to something to keep from falling, and at times it looked like I would faint. I began losing time from my work, often for three or four days I couldn't hit a tick, and then I became restless at night so that I could hardly get any sound sleep. I felt tired and worn out all the time. This just didn't seem to have a particle of energy, and life seemed hopeless and living."

"Hearing the boys at the shop praising Tanae so highly, I finally decided to try it. I have taken four bottles now, and it certainly does me a world of good. My catarrhal trouble is so nearly gone I scarcely notice it, and my appetite is fine. I never have a dizzy faint spell, and have gained several pounds in weight and all my old time strength and energy have come back to me so that I am on the job every day and feeling fine. I don't deserve all the credit for my present good health," and I am glad to recommend it to anyone needing

TAKE PEPTO-MANGAN

Fortify Your System — Good Blood Will Give You New Strength to Keep Well

If you feel the least bit run down, not necessarily sick, but tired and blue and sort of down and out, it shows plainly that your power of resistance is low.

It is dangerous to go around that way. You don't want to do it.

Make an effort to take care of it, when you feel yourself slipping into lazy habits, getting indifferent to the things you naturally like, no energy, no vigor, always tired—it is time to look out. It may not mean that you are sick or that you will be. But there are diseases that would have an easy time of it with your system if your blood has not righting qualities.

You want to be well and keep well and feel strong. If you build up the quality of your blood by taking Pepto-Mangan you will be in trim to fight off winter ills. It has just the right ingredients to build your blood up with rich red corpuscles.

Pepto-Mangan gives your blood the qualities it needs to pick you up and start you off on a healthy basis.
You will notice the difference soon after you start taking it. You will have better color, better feeling, and more energy.

You can take it in liquid or tablet form as you prefer. Both have the same ingredients. But be sure you get the genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan and ask for it by that name—Gude's Pepto-Mangan" and be sure the full name is on the package.

CHILDREN SAVE PETS IN FLAMES

When fire broke out in the pound operated by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals last night, the youngsters of the neighborhood organized a rescue party and opened their back yards to the motley array of pets irrespective of their kind. Life saving was the sole purpose of the volunteer force.
Goats, dogs, cats, horses, were handed out to waiting hands and lugged immediately to their new quarters.
No register had been assembled yet
of the new addresses of the pets.
Almost every home in the vicinity of Kingsley Street is possessed of an animal, many of them a pet.

The pound was drastically destroyed. Among the pets which were sacrificed in the flames were "Jacob," a goat who has been the pet of the neighborhood for years, and three cats known as "Kitty," "Abuser," and "Gagey."
The fire alarm signalled the young sters from bed in various modes of nights. Under the direction of Miss Mary L. Taylor, the Presiding Officer of the Society, the youngest declared today that the animals would be well cared for until a new pound was erected. The police are investigating the origin of the fire.

The Federal Electric Washing Machine

The Twelve Federal Features

The Federal is its oscillating tumbler with a double wave-like washing action that forces great showers of sudsy water through the clothes at the rate of 128 times a minute. This improvement—one of the 12 Federal features—saves over a half hour on the time of each washing. Another feature of this Federal tumbler is the easy position in which it falls when the machine is opened. It always stops in a convenient position for removing the clothes.

"MY LOVE"
I have sought my love and found it. Though 'tis not what it had seemed. And the world is gray and lonely. Gone the sun that once time beamed.

I have had my life and faltered. And the world will stand alone. I have tasted much—so bitter. And I am sobered—and alone.

August 30—Alone all day. Two calls from Colonel in Fort Worth and fussing. He came on 12 o'clock train and went back on the morning train. Good God!

HER HEART EMPTY

August 31—A very hot day. Colonel left on morning train for Fort Worth. I slept until noon. Spent afternoon sewing and writing. Very quiet day. Extremely lonely empty heart.

September 1—The day blew in with a cold, chilly rain. Was awake at 5 a. m. and got my coat slick. Intended going to the country but too much mud. Had two breakfasts—one at 8 and one at 10. The only appetite I can satisfy.

Spent morning reading and writing. A fine day to browse around through old papers and books; to live over days gone by and to dream or hope for happy days in the future.

It's a bit of character building—old developing—while we'll live. I love the company of my thoughts at times—I love solitude in which I might look my own self square in the face without the veneer we so often wear, even before our own souls.

I like to face facts and get away from illusions—I like to look clearly upon the stern realities of life and realize what might have been.

That is what this day has been to me. Though inclined to be sad it is satisfying. I must be brave.

Col. in Fort Worth, I intended going but changed my mind. Must save money. Jimmy coming in for a big dance tonight.

(Editor's note: Several stereographic notes follow.)

September 3—Never in my life have I been more disgusted with myself and with life and with the selfish author of my unhappiness. To accept invitations is to submit myself to torture; I cannot wait for the day when I shall go on and try to win happiness by a recipe which has always spelled failure. My case, I find, is no exception.

As I sit writing this the falling leaves rustle ceaselessly. Their restless movement is in keeping with the mood I have; impatience mingled with other and fiercer emotions. How well I know the truth of that saying: "You can't get away with it! Can't!"

Crime Prevention Urged By Compton

Hopeless morons are asking to be sent to institutions according to Alameda County Probation Officer Leonard Compton. Judges, he de- clares, are reluctant to send delin- quents and offenders to institutions which now exist. With the inaugura- tion of a new system of treating of- fenders against the law, many more persons will be removed from society who are now confined in jails and state hospitals, according to the export.

The present court system is at least 100 years behind the times. Compton maintains. The future will see them psychological laboratories with the functions of jails and prisons modified, he prophesies. Prevention against crime is the theory which the probation officer would see put into practice.

The archbishop was assisted by a number of prominent prelates from both sides of the bay.

Promptly at 3:30 o'clock, those who were to take part in the cere- monies took their places on the steps of the new church. Following a chant by the choir, which was led by Father Leonard Rose, Archbishop Hanna spoke briefly, commanding the parish for its show of generosity and activity in raising funds for the erection of the church. He characterized the new building as a "per- manent memorial of your generosity to the work of God." This gen- erosity was so magnificent, he said, that the church had been paid for and added that a movement was al- ready under way to erect a school build- ing, which, he said, would instruct the children of the community for Chil- dren of Mary.

NAMES OF PARISHIONERS

The corner stone, which contains the names of all the parishioners and members of the various societies of the church, the names of the brothers in the monastery, and of the sisters of the parish school, and the names of the religious and civil authorities of the church and state, was then laid with impressive cere- monies at the southwest extremity of the church.

The close of the ceremonies was held in the old church building, where Archbishop Hanna administered benediction with holy sacraments.

The Knights of Columbus was present in a body, and eight of the religious societies of the church took part in the ceremonies.

GUARD OF HONOR

Company N, League of the Cross Cadets, furnished a guard of honor for the archbishop. Members of St. Joseph's Sodality acted as marshals.

Other organizations which took part were: Third Order of St. Francis, Altar Society, St. Francis Re- novelot Society, St. Alphonsus So- ciety, Young Ladies' Sodality and Children of Mary.

Institute to Give Whist Party, Carnival

A benefit whist party and carnival will be held tonight by American Council No. 8, Young Men's Institute, in Knights of Columbus auditorium, Thirteenth and Grove streets. The affair, which is planned to be one of the largest of its kind in the city, will occupy nearly the entire K. of C. building, which will be given over to the whist players. The card tourney will be directed by Supervisor-elect John F. Mullins, and Past District Deputies George A. Nixon and Thomas O'Brien, and District J. J. Jimenez, Nestor Kenny, Joseph A. Mullin, M. Sweeney and Francis Duffy with the women of St. Joseph's Athletic club and the Letitia club assisting as patronesses. A boy of young women headed by the Misses Catherine A. Mullin, Helen C. Goodman and Irene Judg; have been selected to tally.

CALIFORNIA TO LEAVE.

MARE ISLAND, Dec. 6.—The battleship California will leave the Hunter's Point drydock Wednesday morning and will be moored at California City that night. The following day the battler will be towed to the navy yard by tugs.

Landers Stevens To Produce Here $100,000 Picture

Familiar trials of early days were remembered by Landers Stevens when the setting for one of his latest pictures was proposed, which explains why the actor is here with his business manager, Charles F. Carrere. Long articles or tempting photographs were not needed to impress Stevens with the ideal surroundings which the bay cities afford.

As leading man for the John P. McCarthy productions, Stevens promptly selected Oakland for his coming $100,000 picture, after reading the lines.

Strange as it may seem McCarthy, who is rapidly ascending the starry stair of producers of filmdom, and Carrere, who is head of the corporation also came from Oakland.

In a few weeks a story embrac- ing the hills of Piedmont, the waterfront of Oakland and the garden spots of the lake region will be filmed.

SOUGHT NEWS HERE.

McCarthy rambled the streets with Charles E. Van Loan in the old days when both were hunting news for local papers. He is an old St. Mary's College boy and spent the major portion of his life here.

Carrere also took off the rough edges at St. Mary's. Both met during the war "Over There" and together they entered the motion picture world.

Then Landers Stevens, who has been in motion pictures for the past few months, and who is a brother-in-law to Carrere, was taken into the fold and will be head of a cast of 100 persons which is now being selected.

"Those were grand old days," said Stevens yesterday when with Carrere, he drove over the old lanes now wide, concrete highways.

"Just think. There is D. W. Griffith famed far and wide for his productions and who saw his start at the old, old Liberty."

AT YE LIBERTY.

"Then Allan Holubar and Lloyd Ingraham, known as the foremost motion picture directors of the south, who also trod the boards of the old Dewey and Liberty theaters here.

"It hardly seems a day since we heard the familiar clapping as the girls clapped down.

"But the old days are gone and the film has come to take its place. We have come to show that Oakland embraces even greater scenes than those of the south."

"McCarthy and Carrere know well what Oakland has to offer. Yet they were surprised when I took them over the hills yesterday.

DIRECTOR EIGHT YEARS.

"Carrere is enthusiastic over the scenic effects and who knows but what Oakland will become our permanent summer ground. I would like to come back and I know McCarthy and Carrere have the same feeling.

McCarthy has been directing for Griffith for eight years. His work has caused comment everywhere and at the suggestion of friends of us three we soon will show a sample of his work."

Death Saves Robber From Long Sentence

Because of the death of Marcus Martin Anderson, who was killed while riding a bicycle near Hayward by an automobile driven by Joseph Vargas, poolroom proprietor of Hayward; James Harris, charged with aiding John Hogan in holding up Anderson, was permitted to withdraw his plea of not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit robbery and plead guilty to a charge of simple assault today.

Judge L. S. Church sentenced him to spend six months in the county jail. Deputy Distric Attorney Wade Snook said that with the death of Anderson the prosecution could not hope to secure a conviction on the most serious charge. Hogan was convicted of assault recently and sent to San Quentin for an indefinite term.

The trouble began in Laredo. It puth in safety while he was in this mood.

The Kid openly boarded the north-bound passenger train that departed five minutes later. But at Webb, a few miles out, where it was flagged to take on a traveler, he abandoned that manner of escape. There were telegraph stations ahead; and the Kid had been dispatched for the missing car. Meanwhile the captain puffed and steamed. Saddle and spur were his rocks of safety.

The man whom he had shot was a stranger to him. But the Kid knew that he was of the Corralitos outfit from Hidalgo; and that the punches from that ranch were more relentless and vengeance than Kentucky bushwhackers. So with the wisdom that has characterized many great fighters, the Kid decided to pile up as many leashes as possible of chaparral and pear between himself and the retaliation of the Corralitos bunch.

Near the station was a store; and near the store, scattered among the mesquits and cactus, stood the saddled horses of the customers.

He mounted his steed, with sagebrush and drooping heads. But one a long-legged roan with a curved neck snorted and pawed the turf. Him the Kid mounted, gripped with his knees, and slapped gently with the owner's own quirt.

If the slaying of the temerous card player had cast a cloud over the Kid's standing as a good and true citizen, this last act of his veiled his figure in the darkest shadows of disrepute. On the Rio Grande border it takes a man like the Kid to make a fastishout of an unbroken horse.

"Thinkin' of buyin' that'ar gulf," asked the captain, made surelike by his narrow escape from the toothless voyage.

"You haven't been eatin' loco weed, have you?" asked the Kid.

"S'pose down again," said the Kid. "And tell me, when we was drinkin' most of 'em here do from the surface water. He was a wild little devil, even if he wasn't but eight years old. Everybody knows about it. Some Americans who were through here prospecting for gold had letters to Senor Urique and the boy was a favorite with them after filled his head with big stories about the States; and about a month after they left, the kid disappeared.

He was supposed to have stowed himself away among the banana bunches on a fruit steamer, and gone to New Orleans. He was seen once afterward in Texas, it was thought, but they never heard anything more about him. Old Urique has spent hundreds of dollars trying to find him.

The madam was broken up worse of all. The kid was her life. She wears mourning yet. But they say she believes he'll come back to her some day, and never gives up hope. On the back of the boy's left hand was tattooed a flying eagle holding a spear in his claws. That's old Urique's coat of arms or something that he inherited in Spain.

The Kid raised his left hand slowly and gazed at it curiously.

"That's it," said Thacker, reaching behind the official desk for his bottle of smuggled brandy. "You're not so bad, can do it. What I can't understand is Sanderson. For I never knew till now, in a week, that the eagle bird with the front feathers blended in so you'd think you were born with it. I brought a set of the needles and ink just because I was sure you'd drop in some day, Mr. Dalton."

"Oh, hell," said the Kid. "I thought I told you my name, didn't I?"

"Not at all," said the captain. "I'll send it to you C. O. D. when I get back to Buena Tiers. Here comes that capstanfooted lubber with another spear in his claws.

"Is that your ship out there?" asked the Kid.

"Why, yes," answered the captain, "if you want to call a schooner a ship, and I don't mind lyin'. But you better say Miller and Gonzales, owners and ordinary plain Billy-be-damned old Samuel K. Boone, skipper."

"Where are you going to?" asked the Kid.

"Buena Tiers, coast of South America—I forgot what they called the country the last time I was there. Cargo—lumber, corrugated iron, and machetes."

"What kind of a country is it?" asked the Kid—"hot or cold?"

"Warmish, buddy," said the captain.

"But a regular Paradise lost for elegance of scenery and be-yooty of girls."

"Yer'e wakin' every morning by the sweet-singin' of birds with colorful purple tails, and the sighin' of breezes in the posies and roses. And the inhabitant never work, for they can reach out and pick steamer baskets of the choicest hothouse fruit without gettin' out of bed. And there's no Sunday and no work, no rent, no troubles and no use, and nothing's comin' in—it's a neat country for a man to go to, sit back with, and wait for somethin' to turn up. The bananas and oranges and pineapples and choco-pies that you eat comes from there."

"That sounds good to me!" said the Kid, at last betraying interest.

"What'll the expressage be to take me out there with you?"

"Twenty-four dollars," said Captain Boone; "grub and transportation, cabin. I haven't got a first cabin."

"You've got my company," said the Kid, pulling out a buckskin bag.

With three hundred dollars he had gone to Laredo for his regular "blow-out."

The duel in Valdov's had cut short his season of hilarity, but it had left him with nearly two hundred dollars for all the fun in the fight that it had made necessary.

"All right, buddy," said the captain.

"I hope your mom won't blame me for this little childish escapade of yours!" he beckoned to one of the boat's crew. "Let Sanchez lift you out to the skiff so you won't get your feet wet."

Thacker, the United States consul at Buena Tiers, was not yet drunk. It was only eleven o'clock; and he never arrived at his desired state of beatitude—a state where he sang ancient maudlin vaudeville songs, pelted his screaming parrot with banana peels—until the middle of the afternoon. So, when he looked up from his hammock at the sound of a slight noise, and saw the kid standing in the door of the cabin, he was still in a condition to extend the hospitality and courtesy due from the representative of a great nation.

"Don't disturb yourself," said the Kid easily. "I just dropped in. They told me it was customary to light at your camp before starting in to round up the town. I just came in to round up from Texas."

"Glad to see you, Mr.——," said the consul.

The Kid laughed.

"Sprague Dalton," he said. "It sounds funny to me to hear it. I'm called the Liano Kid in the Rio Grande country."

"I'm Thacker," said the consul.

"Take that cane-bottom chair. Now somebody to advise you. There are some things you don't understand their way. You're a cigar?"

"Much obliged," said the Kid. "But if it wasn't for my come-shit and the little bag in my back pocket, I couldn't live a minute." He took out his "makings," and rolled a cigarette.

"They speak Spanish here," said the consul.

"You'll need an interpreter. If there's anything I can do, why, I'd be delighted. If you're buying fruit lands or looking for a concession of some sort, you want somebody who knows the ropes and look out for you."

"I speak Spanish," said the Kid, "about nine times better than I do English. Everybody speaks it in the range where I come from. And I'm not in the market for anything."

"You speak Spanish?" said Thacker thoughtfully. He repartied the Kid absently.

"You look like a Spaniard, too," he continued. "And you can't be more than twenty or thirty-one. I wonder if you've got any help."

"You got a deal of some kind to put through?" asked the Texan with interest.

"Are you open to a proposition?" said Thacker.

"What's the use to deny it?" said the Kid. "I gone into a little run-frolic down in Laredo and plugged a white man. There wasn't any Mexican handy. And I come down to your pants-and-monkey range just for to small time mauling—glorying and mar-of the great Gulf, the gemesome colt of the greater water."

So after three days he stood on the shore at Corpus Christi, and looked out across the gentle ripples of a quiet sea.

Captain Boone, of the schooner Flyaway, stood near his skiff, which one of his crew was guarding in the surf. When ready to sail he had discovered that one of the necessities of life in the parallelogrammatic shape of plug tobacco, had been forgotten. A sailor had been dispatched for the missing cargo.

"In that house," said Thacker, "a fine old Castilian gentleman and his wife are yearning to gather you into their arms and fill your pockets with money. Old Santos Urique lives there. He owns half the gold-mines in the country."

"You haven't been eatin' loco weed, have you?" asked the Kid.

"S'pose down again," said the Kid.

"And tell me, when we was drinkin' most of 'em here do from the surface water. He was a wild little devil, even if he wasn't but eight years old. Everybody knows about it. ## FRUITS OF NEGLIGENCE

In arresting a gang of crooks, assassins and despoilers of women in Santa Rosa yesterday, Sheriff Petray of Sonoma county and Detectives Miles Jackson and Lester Dorman of San Francisco were killed. That three young women and Policewoman O'Connor of San Francisco, who had gone to Santa Rosa to identify the criminals, escaped without injury seems a miracle. Only by the utmost vigilance and determined resistance were thousands of citizens of Santa Rosa and surrounding towns prevented last night from administering mob justice to the murderers.

The gang to which these assassins belong operated in San Francisco for a long time prior to the arrest a few days ago of five other of its members for unspeakable offenses against two young women they had forcibly taken into an empty house. During the last six months over one hundred crimes against women and girls have been committed in the city across the bay. Various members of the gang have been up in the police courts on other charges in the past, but due to the influence of the underworld in the courts of San Francisco, they have as often gone free. The tragedy at Santa Rosa yesterday was the result of this shameful condition in San Francisco.

Then the citizens of San Francisco who permit proven derelicts to remain in office must accept a share of the responsibility for the crime. Now will the public and official conscience of San Francisco be sufficiently aroused to see that justice is served in the cases of the murderers and rapists? Or will the agents of the criminals at court who have been so efficacious in the past succeed in mollifying the pretense of official anger and in getting the gangsters off with a milder sentence than life imprisonment?

But if anything is said in criticism of the negligence of San Francisco in this hour of her grief it must be said in a contrite spirit, with the motive to help her. The same conditions that prevail in that city exist in other California cities and on the Eastbay shore. The crimes of the gangsters against women and the murders in Santa Rosa should be a warning to all communities to put their house in order.

IN GERMANY'S BEHALF

Germany is not a member of the League of Nations, nor has she an official representative at the League meeting at Geneva, but she seems to be somewhat ably represented by the Argentine delegation. The Argentine delegation has absented itself from meetings of the assembly in typically German fashion and for a peculiarly German cause.

When the League covenant was drafted by the Paris peace conference a method was prescribed for the admission of new members to the League. They must make application and have their fitness passed upon by those nations already members of the League. This procedure was adopted to meet the case of the central powers—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey—when it was not certain whether these powers would qualify for admission by compliance with the terms of the peace treaty and other tests of national fitness for admission.

Germany has not yet applied for admission, having received the plain intimation that she would be opposed in her desire at this time, because of recent failure to keep her word and signed contracts. But the Argentine delegation, presumably acting upon instructions from President Irrigoyen, whose friendship for the notorious German ambassador von Luxburg was an unpleasant incident of the war, has submitted a resolution which would save Germany the necessity of applying for admission to the League. It would modify the procedure of admission so that all nations would become members of the League without any other formality than a declaration of accession to the agreement.

This move is for no other purpose than to extricate Germany from the embarrassing situation in which she now finds herself. It is not possible that any considerable South American sentiment will be found behind Argentina's position. But this is the first display of pro-German intrigue at the League meeting and will be interesting to watch the consequences.

The women of Yoncalla, Oregon, got together in a secret campaign and elected an all-women's municipal government. Is not the seat of Yoncalla possible on a national scale now, with more women than men voters in the nation? The male slackers in civic duties should think this over before the next election arrives.

CONSERVATION IN INDUSTRY.

Mr. Mark L. Requa of Oakland, addressing the American Petroleum Institute in New York city a few days ago, discussed the question of conservation in the petroleum industry. In doing so he exhibited a rather profound study of the problem as a citizen and a merciless introspection as a leading figure in the oil business, to say nothing of his expressed recognition of the duty of great industries to the whole social body.

"More and more it is being recognized," said Mr. Requa, "that great industries dealing in basic commodities essential to the industrial life of the nation owe a service obligation that must be discharged. The service rendered by the petroleum industry in the past has been of a singularly high type. That type of service must be continued in the future, but, because of new and complex problems entering into the situation, its continuity is possible only through conservation and cooperation—neither of which can be successful without the other."

The considerations which caused Mr. Requa to lend so much emphasis to his plea for conservation are the tremendously increased demand upon the oil industry for fuel, the wasting reserves of oil and the waste tolerated in the production and refining of petroleum. That the operators of oil fields and refineries will give serious thought to his expression of view and presentation of facts is certain. It may be that in the near future his advice for conservation will be reflected in a fixed policy for the oil industry in general. These are facts which it does not seem possible the industry can ignore:

The Bureau of Mines is on record as believing that 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 barrels of gasoline are lost each year, in this country, in inefficient storage and handling, and that at least one-half of this could be saved. Can the industry prove that this statement is right or wrong? And, if right, why doesn't the industry find ways and means of correcting the situation?

The Bureau of Mines has compiled figures showing that refinery losses average approximately 4 per cent of the material run. Can these losses be reduced? Is there any joint discussion among refinery superintendents? Do they ever meet and talk things over? I am aware that economic pressure is the greatest incentive to conservatism, but a proper understanding of the responsibility resting upon the oil industry, as the trustee of the people in the administration of a wasting national asset will, I think, add even greater efficiency to that due solely to a desire for increased profits. And this awakening in itself will be the source of greater company profits by conserving and making available material that would otherwise be wasted, without profit to anyone.

In this connection I must again emphasize the need for greater cooperation and more extensive pooling of knowledge on the part of oil refineries. There is too much false mystery concerning the processes in use by the average refinery. The industry would gain if there were less attempt to maintain secrecy about processes which are really known to all. I would invite your attention to the new office of the Catalina Islander to the left on Metropole avenue immediately after passing the power house opposite the City Hall. Just before you reach the water tanks, turn to the right and just in front of you will be seen the business office.

The Dixon Tribune hasn't seen anything. "There seems to be agitation in some towns against roiled stockings on the feminine limb. Nothing doing in Dixon—haven't seen a common property of their advances. The units of an industry go forward or fall behind in unison, and in the long run the furtherance of technical proficiency rather than its restrictive application is for the general good."

Mr. Requa, in describing conservation means, expressed the opinion that the marine steam engine is today or soon will be obsolete. Burning fuel oil under boilers is a shameful waste, he said. Employed in a Diesel or semi-Diesel type of engine, a saving of 75 percent in the oil burned is effected; and economic pressure will of course force greater and greater use of this type of engine, especially for marine work. As to the automobile:

The requirements of automotive transportation, particularly truck and tractor, are growing so rapidly that a supply of motor fuel can only be assured for future years by giving the utmost attention not alone to economy of operation, but also to the more difficult problem of adapting the engine so as to permit the maximum increase in the fuel supply. The problem of coordinating engine and fuel is thought by many engineers to represent one of the most important issues now occupying the field of automotive transportation. Is the cooperation between the automotive industry in the solution of this problem effective; is it serial, and can it be made still more satisfactory?

And so on in reference to lubricating oils and other uses of petroleum and its products. Mr. Requa points out that there is no danger of encroaching the market for the maximum output by introducing economy and conservation measures, for the uses of oil will expand as rapidly as oil can be furnished for new uses. As to fuel from oil shale, the coal refining industry and alcohol, still largely in an experimental stage, Mr. Requa urges the petroleum industry to regard these sources of fuel as supplementary to petroleum, as allies and not competitors, for the usefulness of oil is so great and the demand for it so insatiable that the market never will be in danger.

It seems that in this address of Mr. Requa there has been displayed a quality of statesmanship in business and industry all too uncommon among those actively engaged in business and industry. It is a lesson for industries other than that of oil production—the lesson of long vision and of recognition of the duty of public service.

The news that Emma Goldman desires to return to the United States will make most Americans glad she was deported and conclude that the deportation law is a mighty good thing after all.

NOTES and COMMENT

The Woodland Democrat strikes back. "The Republican papers of California, in exploring the San Francisco booze scandal, never fail to connect it in one way or another with the Democratic National Convention. But they never mention the detention of a carload of champagne at some railroad point in Arizona, while on our way to Chicago at the time of the Republican National Convention, and finally released on the ground that it was needed for medicinal purposes." It is all right to celebrate the nomination of Harding by quaffing sparkling champagne, but there seems to be something reprehensible in the celebration of Governor Cox by the use of plain old bourbon."

Anti-Thanksgiving news from the San Bernardino Sun: "The familiar picture of the early Puritan on his way to church Thanksgiving Day with his blunderbuss over his shoulder has been put back in the file for another year. Wonder why the artist always fails to sketch in the unwilling churchgoer just as those whose fear of the blunderbuss is greater than his desire to go skating with the other felons."

PICK YOUR PROF, or Getting In College is the title of a publication that is being advertised among college students. At the ad says: Millions of pages have been written on how to make the student work, but "PICK YOUR PROF" is the only publication on how to get by without work. Some of the sub-titles sound worth while: "Vaudeville Possibilities," "Bluffing in Self-Defense," "Like the Prof's Jokes"—Palo Alto Times.

The Richmond Record Herald man is incredulous: "And now a fellow rushes into print with the bald statement that he recently saw a woman's ears. We don't believe a word of it. We haven't seen a woman's ears for a number of years, and don't believe they have any. It is curious though, how keen they can hear the jingle of silver."

Sheriff Yeale's boarders at Martinez do, in number, all enjoyed the usual Thanksgiving turkey, and while they were dining on white meat and trimmings they sang lustily the beautiful ballad: "We'd rather be on the outside looking in." Sheriff Yeale never thought 'em rough. He's a popular sheriff—Martinez Standard.

The Red Bluff News calls attention to a danger: "By the time the grammar school pupil has had his tonsils and adenoids removed, been vaccinated for measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, mumps, diphtheria, typhoid and et cetera, he is so thoroughly saturated with disease that an education won't take."

Definite directions: "To reach the new office of the Catalina Islander turn to the left on Metropole avenue immediately after passing the power house opposite the City Hall. Just before you reach the water tanks, turn to the right and just in front of you will be seen the business office."

The Dixon Tribune hasn't seen anything. "There seems to be agitation in some towns against roiled stockings on the feminine limb. Nothing doing in Dixon—haven't seen a common property of their advances. The units of an industry go forward or fall behind in unison, and in the long run the furtherance of technical proficiency rather than its restrictive application is for the general good."

The Personal Touch man of the San Jose Mercury Herald is going to be on the safe side: "The more we read about mushroom inspection the more determined we are that our steak will be 'without'."

With the distilleries closed, the cloverdale Review is of opinion that the bumper crop of corn ought to mean mush three times a day if we want it.

The Redding Searchlight issues a call for a convocation: "All landlords who have reduced rents during 1920 are called to meet this morning in the telephone booth at the Redding depot."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

The serious condition of Dr. Kellogg, former secretary of the State Board of Health, who took serum treatment while suspecting that he had been poison poisoned in a camel's stool, appears to be an instance of drastic remedy needlessly applied—Chico Enterprise.

The New York World butters at the California altitude towards Japanese land ownership, which should prove extremely helpful to California. The world rarely thinks a winner and they only by accident—San Bernardino Sun.

Reduction in the price of golf balls in Chicago may be a hopeful sign that "things are coming down," but as yet the news has caused no loud burrals in California—Sacramento Bee.

Mr. Cominetti, Commissioner general of immigration during his official trip abroad will endeavor to reduce immigration to this country in view of the present influx that will be something like trying to head off the 17-year locusts—San Jose Mercury.

A Kennett man who was unable to purchase a costly turkey for Thanksgiving dinner says that he found roasted mule stuffed with firecrackers an excellent substitute—Redding Searchlight.

Discussion in the League of Nations of the question whether a nation shall be allowed to control its own natural resources emphasizes anew American wisdom in staying out of it. ## BITTER WORDS FLY IN HUBER CASE AS COUNCIL IS THROWN INTO UPROAR

Sarcasm and Repartee Bandied; Defendant Defies the Members; Morse Withdraws From Trial

Denying the jurisdiction of the City Council under the charter to act in the trial of Major Harry Huber, civil service commissioner, Attorney Fred E. Mellman, representing Huber, threw the hearing into tumult which lasted through the whole session and was enlivened by repeated sarcasm and disagreement between members of the council.

Before the session was over Huber gave notice that he would not appear before the council again. Commissioner Morse withdrew from the hearing. City Attorney Hagan announced Huber would be cited for contempt, and a movement for the dismissal of the whole case was lost by a 2-2 vote. Morse not voting. Mayor Davis and Commissioner Bassett voted to dismiss. Edward Soderberg voted against it.

The session was one of the most warlike in the City Council for months. The trial of Huber began with a formal statement by Commissioner Morse, his accuser. Morse said:

"MORSE ACCUSES HUBER."

"Huber has been hearing the case of a dismissed police officer, a particular friend of Huber. It is not my desire to attack Huber's character or reputation. The incident of his army experience has been brought up to show that if he is a human being he cannot but be grateful. He had need of a friend then and that friend was Walter J. Petersen. I am not condemning friendship," said Petersen.

"I have heard no evidence," protested Edwards.

"The case doesn't come within the charter provisions," said Bacmeister. "Doesn't it come under the charter when a commissioner is biased?" said Hagan.

"I move we dismiss the case," said Edwards.

The vote was lost.

"I move the case go over till tomorrow," said Hagan.

"We don't want any more delay," said Mellman. "We've been here six days. Let us proceed and get a decision."

"You refused to take testimony at this hearing," said Hagan.

"From that point the hearing became so confused, with so many voices speaking at once, that the Mayor finally interceded."

"Keep your shirts on," he roared.

"Stop that noise. Let us get this thing in regular order."

It was finally agreed to postpone further hearing until 3 p.m.

ELECTION PAY TEST CASE IS BEFORE TRABUCCO

Arguments were begun before Judge J. J. Trabucco today in the suit of Lucy Barker for a writ of mandamus to compel City Attorney Harry G. Williams to pay her $2 in arrears on the $10 she paid to the county for services on the election board November 2, in connection with the city of Oakland's special election.

The suit is a test case for the benefit of all of the election officers who served that day and thus involves indirectly about $500. The City Council authorized payment of the claims but after being served with an opinion by City Attorney H. L. Hagan declaring the action illegal, Williams held them up.

UNION TERMINAL FOR RAILROADS URGED BY DAVIE

Mayor Explains Reason He Wants Santa Fe to Remain Here

That a great metropolitan union terminal for all railroads coming to Oakland is one of the city's greatest needs at present is the assertion of Mayor John L. Davie in a statement issued today in connection with his campaign to have the Santa Fe terminal kept in Oakland instead of being moved to Richmond.

In this statement the mayor proposes utilization of the land in the vicinity of Twenty-first and Adeline streets as the site for the proposed terminal. He points out that with the exception of the Sixteenth street station, Oakland is without any facilities which might be utilized for terminal business.

Mayor Davie says, in part:

"We have an excellent location for such a union terminal in the district near Twenty-first and Adeline streets. The property provides a great deal of space for a union terminal with facilities of sufficient capacity to handle terminal business in Oakland for the next hundred years.

"Morse believes that under such conditions an affected judge should withdraw," said Hagan.

"Do I understand that you ask for retirement?" shouted Hagan.

"I don't care what he does," replied Mellman.

"Morse retires," said Hagan.

"I ask not withdrawal. Let him stay here on his own volition," said Mellman.

"Morse believed that under such conditions an affected judge should withdraw," said Hagan.

"Do I understand you are trying to get your case out of Huber's mouth?" he asked. "Let us dismiss this thing."

"This looks like trying to railroad the case," said Hagan.

CASE IS POSTPONED

"I move the charges be dismissed," said Hagan.

"I have heard no evidence," protested Edwards.

"The case doesn't come within the charter provisions," said Bacmeister.

"Doesn't it come under the charter when a commissioner is biased?" said Hagan.

"I move we dismiss the case," said Edwards.

The vote was lost.

"I move the case go over till tomorrow," said Hagan.

Judge May Pay Visit To Slaughter House

Whether Superior Judge A. F. S. Sure and his court will go to Hayward to examine the slaughter-house which Kate Bauman, Frank Baum and some forty other residents are trying to have declared a nuisance hinges on evidence that was presented late today.

Demand was made in the case of Bauman vs. Anna May at 10 o'clock in the morning session.

Judge S. Sure said he might personally inspect the place.

Probation Granted In Junk Theft Case

Marshall Scott, convicted of stealing 600 pounds of metal July 22 from a Fruitvale junk house, was granted probation today by Superior Judge James G. Quinn after Inspector Mulherin of the Oakland police department said he thought Scott innocent. Mulherin said an investigation subsequent to Scott's arrest showed that he had been told to take the property by the owners and that he had by accident taken about $2 more junk than he was entitled to.

TRIBUNE CLASS A PENNANT RACE TIGHTENS WHEN LEADERS LOSE

MELROSE MERCHANTS TRAVELING FAST IN "B" RACE; DALTON IS TRAINING FOR BAT ORTEGA

Crystals, Tractors And Millers Climb Nearer Top Rung

San Leandro Fans See Their Club Deliver 8 to 2 Beating to Alameda Bethlehems

By EDDIE MURPHY

Victories registered by the Crystal Laundry and California Cotton Mills nines yesterday afternoon did a whole lot to tighten up the race for the Class-A championship in THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE Midwinter League. The Crystal Laundry team reaped revenge for an early defeat handed them earlier in the season by the Halton-Didier club when they handed the latter a 3-to-0 whitewashing and broke their clean slate. It was the first defeat of the season for the Alameda Clothiers. The California Cotton Mills was another second division club to put the skids under a first division outfit by whipping the Coast Tire boys. The C. L. Best Tractors are once again being considered strong contenders for the championship by being tied for third place with the Millers as the result of an 8-to-2 victory scored by the Tractors yesterday over the Alameda Bethlehems at the San Leandro ball park.

The game in the Class B league yesterday failed to pull the Melrose Merchants from the high position they hold on the ladder, and now that the Bayview and Merchants' two out-skids under them yesterday there is no telling what club will be able to do the trick. The Peet Bros. and the Alameda Merchants continue to climb up the top, but winning their games, but they are still trailing the Melrose gang by two full games, as the latter has won all six of their starts.

Sinclair Batted From Box By Best Tractors

The victory of the Best Tractors at the San Leandro park was marred by the fact that the whitewashing which the Alameda Beths suffered on them earlier in the season, Lyall Sinclair, who led the job in the whitewashing with his two hits, was batted from the mound in five innings and relieved by Bill Steengriff, a lad who resembles Slim Love a whole lot. Sinclair's two hits were followed by three more from the left field wall by the Alameda Beths.

Young Steengriff looked good, except for the eighth inning when he allowed a single, but he had his two full games, as the latter has won all six of their starts.

Eddie Benn Hits First

Eddie Benn, leadoff man for the Melrose, started the game for the Tractors in the opening inning by hitting the first ball pitched by Sinclair over the left field wall for a base hit. Fonseca's single, his steal of third, and Hal Paine's single fly counted another in the third. In the fifth, Fonseca walked, again stole second, went to third when Keyey Vargas' single, and home when Benn let a line drive slide from his glove. Fonseca scored on Starlinich's double, and Kelley was waved home from third when Sinclair's single, his steal of second, and a wild pitch by Bill Rock hit him in the back of the head.

Steengriff relieved Sinclair after that and got by the sixth and seventh innings. Rhyne and Vargas never got to bat, but the Melrose team, and the firemen went off with a bang. Bird beat out a roller to third base, lay scored, and made some wonderful plays out there. Eddie Ross and Elmer Peets been in the Beths line-up as expected the last two days, but the Melrose Peets was unable to appear because of serious illness of his father, and Eddie Ross said he was on the sick list.

The Millers took the lead in the second when Phil Apperson singled. Holstrom sacrificed, Apperson stole third and Apperson crossed the pan to score. It was the first star for the Millers as it was his two base hit that scored Schimpff in the second inning after the latter had singled and went to third when Keyey Vargas' single, his steal of second, and when Benn let a line drive slide from his glove. Baseball Is Sport, Says Chief Justice

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Baseball, professional or otherwise, is not commerce or trade. "It is sport," said Chief Justice Smith of the court of appeals today in an opinion reversing the conviction of "Lefty" Kardon, who rested on the billets for the Adelaidians. Eddie Chees did some heavy hitting and Bill Peet, the pitcher, did some to the down-low. Eddie Peet got over him, but he's a trifle slow.

SUMMARY

Scotty Armstrong and E. H. Siever, who can be ranked among the top notch golfers in the state, were coming up from the southland to play in the New Year's golf tournament at Del Monte.

Team which have not selected a training site are the Dodgers, Yankees, Giants, St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians, Detroit and Boston Braves.

Boston and Detroit officials indicated they would probably send their clubs to Texas town.

ALL-STARS vs. C. L. BEST CRUISERS

Washington, Dec. 6.—Baseball, professional or otherwise, is not commerce or trade. "It is sport," said Chief Justice Smith of the court of appeals today in an opinion reversing the conviction of "Lefty" Kardon, who rested on the billets for the Adelaidians. Eddie Chees did some heavy hitting and Bill Peet, the pitcher, did some to the down-low. Eddie Peet got over him, but he's a trifle slow.

It was just a little postal. An' it said: "Jerry, please write about mother-in-laws—because I have one & I'm sick of them." That was all—and yet they say they won't let explosives through the mail!

I'm going to write, I believe, folks, that being related, and this or that member of the hard-boiled jugs a human being has to tackle. Generally speaking, we have more consideration for the feelings of the rags-bottles-and-sacks men than we have for those of our nearest and dearest, and for a naughty good reason. THE RAGS-N-SACKS MAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD US IS REALLY MORE HEALTHY AND NORMAL THAN THE ATTITUDE OF OUR RELATIVES.

In the name of Love we interfere and criticize and argue and tease—in the name of Love we hamper and limit—in the name of Love we let all our inward littleness and selfishness and greed and suspicion have full swing and think we're showing our devotion.

Should Respect Others

I believe that every human being should respect the right of every other human being to grow and experiment in making with the crowd or seek loneliness. That's the only decent rule for parents, sisters, brothers, wives, husbands, sweethearts and IN-LAWS. Serve the other as you may, let him or her feel your friendliness, give advice if it's asked, then, with the necessary—and that's it.

The mother-in-law problem is only an aggravation of the general human scrubability. IT'S MADE DOUBLY HARD BECAUSE GENERALLY THE HUSBAND CAN'T SEE THAT THERE IS ANY PROBLEM AT ALL. Her old hands comforted his youth. How can they do hurt to his wife? But they DO hurt. The dearest mothers can sometimes be the worst wimps of mothers-in-law. And the dearest daughters can be regular blends of daughters-in-law. It's all because we mix too much in each others lives.

There are only two cures. One is to live apart if it can possibly be managed. And I wish I could tell every husband on earth that this SHOULD be managed if there is any possible way to achieve it. And the other is to BUILD YOUR OWN PROTECTION SISTERS. You can make sure sweethearts scratch back, build a reserve of kindness within yourself. Eliminate. Don't fret by counting to realize that there are greater things in life than your own pleasures or pains. Look outside. Live outside. Bring the clean power of new interests into your life and your husband's life. Of course he won't appreciate what you do if you run off with haggling and tears and hysterics. But if you do, he'll just want to know what you're up to. Then tell him frankly that you care, but that you cannot take his love until he is free to give it. Don't preach or nag. Leave it up to him. Tell him when he is free he may take love to you, but until then he must just be your friend. THIS IS THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN TELL WHETHER HE IS TRUE OR FALSE. Don't listen to tattling friends. Even I am not saying what I may or may not think of his honesty. Just want you to test it for yourself. Will you promise me for one whole month to follow Jerry's advice and leave him alone and make him leave you alone? Write and tell me what you think of this plan, dear—for I want very much to know.

In Love With a Boy

Dear Geraldine: I am sixteen and never cared much for boys until now. I am in love with a boy in a position and have come to love a young man working in the place. He has told me he loved me, but a friend told me he was married. I asked him and he said he was, but would give up all for me. People tell me that he is only fooling me. Should I listen to them and quit him or go with him? He is very nice looking and all the girls like him. But he does not notice anyone but me. Do you think he really cares? He says he intends to divorce his wife and will bring her to me. What shall I do?

BROWN EYES

Answer me, dear—What is your idea of love? Is it something that can last or will it go at the slightest rebuff? I'm sure you will say it should last—or rather that any love that YOU would want to tie yourself to should last. So here is what I advise you to do. If your young man really loves you and will marry you, he will have to divorce his wife first, I am sure. You can't want to STICK him just want him to be free of his own wife, don't you? Then tell him frankly that you care, but that you cannot take his love until he is free to give it. Don't preach or nag. Leave it up to him. Tell him when he is free he may take love to you, but until then he must just be your friend. THIS IS THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN TELL WHETHER HE IS TRUE OR FALSE. Don't listen to tattling friends. Even I am not saying what I may or may not think of his honesty. Just want you to test it for yourself. #### Robbers Steal Auto; Kidnap Owners

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 6.—Max and Isadore Goldberg, brothers, returned to their home Sunday after having been dumped from their own automobile at a point outside the city by two highwaymen who had kidnapped them late Saturday, according to their story to the police.

The Goldberg brothers and the wife of one of them were sitting in their car before the house when, suddenly, when the robbers approached and ordered "Hands up," they said. Mrs. Goldberg screamed and leaped from the car, whereupon the highwaymen jumped in and while one kept the brothers covered with a revolver the other drove rapidly away. Once out of town the robbers took what money the Goldbergs had and ordered them out of the automobile. Then they drove on, leaving the brothers to walk home.

News of the Theaters

FULTON—"Johnny Wiggins" galloped onto the stage of the Fulton yesterday, in full cowboy regalia, and during three hours of solid fun kept the audience interested every moment. Paul Harvey was "Johnny Wiggins," a moving picture actor, cowboy hero and all-round good fellow. No briefer chap of more low-life, more vulgar, had ever taken the stage in many a long day than "Johnny Wiggins." He comes under the title "Johnny Get Your Gun" and though that may suggest war stuff, that's not the way he acts except when "Johnny" foils the villains with an unloaded revolver.

Katherine Van Buren is a charming girl, well suited for the part of the cast of the Picture Playhouse, including Louis Morris, Jacob Henderson, John Ivan, Merle Stanton, Maria Golden, Jerome Sheldon, George E. Alton, Watson, Richardson, Ryne, Melba Purcell, George Taylor, Jim Chris Schmidt, Minnie Sisson, Richard Hallowell are all appropriately cast.

OPERA—"Artistic" is an over-worked phrase used too often undeservedly, but it applies in all sincerity to the act which Kitty Gordon brought to the Oakland Orpheum yesterday. Her gowns, her voice, her smile and her manner all fit her descriptive appellation. New songs, sung with a depth of feeling and a mature, full richness, lent her act a musical appeal that was distinct.

Read what this little girl says:

"Blue Bird: I am not going to get anything this Christmas because my father has been out of work for about four months and he said he can't afford to get anything for Christmas. I am always talking about a coat. So if you know anybody that has no use for their coat, Please don't forget if you see one and rich lady that has a coat, that would be nice. Please let me know I would do anything to help her so she could give me the coat and anything else."

of life, instead of the pleasures, have forced them to go hungry instead of being well fed. They have made them go barefooted, instead warmly shod; in fact their lives are not the lives of children. They are prematurely old, with the knowledge that comes from hard knocks and actual want.

brothers they would feel very happy if saw a sticking fild with thing on Christmas day."

BLUE BIRD

BUREAU of the TRIBUNE

Never were there so many requests for the necessities of life at Christmas time. Usually the children ask for toys, games, books, but letter after letter this year asks for clothes, shoes, raincoats and groceries. Illness and lack of work have forced these children to face the hardships four brother. The oldest is 9 yrs and I have one he is 7 yrs and one is 4 yrs and the youngest is 8 months old. The 9 yr boy wants a pair of skates he said that he would like somebody to give him a pair of skates he said he sees the children in them and he only wish he could have a pair. The 7 yr wants a wagon. I wish I could get a good one. I would not care if it was not good. I have not got any money and I can't get any thing. But Please Don't Forget if you see one and rich lady that has a coat, that would be nice. Please let me know I would do anything to help her so she could give me the coat and anything else."

"Way Down East" Thrills, And Delights Big Audience At Ye Liberty Theater

The screen version of "Way Down East" is to the old stage version as a Montana blizzard is to a shower of confetti.

Replace the farm home the canvas sides of which served through so many seasons, with a real country home, surround it with the rolling New England landscape, with cattle knee-deep in grass, and strengthen the effects by picturing those incidents which were impossible to the stage, and the old farm classic becomes a rounded story of comic dramatic and melodramatic moments. As Griffith has pictured it, it is also the double standard, a picture partly punctuated with admonitory captions.

If it be a test of the qualities of motion picture that it make an audience forget that it is a motion picture, then "Way Down East" is a success.

Stamping, whistling and applause are sent up from the house to approve the blow that lands on the villain's chin or the act that saves the maiden, then "Way Down East" was tested last night at "Ye Liberty" and given fullest expression of approval.

The motion picture, as Griffith has used it, can go back to nature for its most stupendous effects. It is a real ice field, a real ice-pack, and genuine blizzard that is plus minus the nerve of poor Anna.

HILL MELROSE, SOUTH

Lillian Gish as Anna, the girl who was tricked with a mock marriage and who went to work much later, for Squire Bartlett. She has the opportunity to depict a greater variety of emotions and to meet more severe emergencies than is any of the early Griffith pictures in which she has appeared. Particularly fascinating is Burr McIntosh as the squire, the first "Way Down East" squire we have seen who did not wear long white hair.

McIntosh is an actor of the old school, an artist of note, and a former publisher of a magazine.

The picture is a delightfully realistic, forgetful of the脚lights, and the stamping, whistling and applause are sent up from the house to approve the blow that lands on the villain's chin or the act that saves the maiden, then "Way Down East" was tested last night at "Ye Liberty" and given fullest expression of approval.

Riley, his wife and son, had just reached Martinez, where Riley was to be connected with the Shell oil interests. They were looking for living quarters and emerged from a taxi just as a machine driven by T. Makatani, a Japanese, passed. The son saved his mother, but Riley, who was a very heavy man, was struck and hurled many feet. He died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital, and the sheriff took Makatani in charge and they followed. On the way to the hospital the Japanese's car collided with the ambulance.

The Japanese boy, who is but 18 years old, was released from the custody of the police last night on an order of the district attorney, his friends promising to produce him whenever wanted. The boy had no operator's license.
